That Is The Way It Looks At Present.

His Fatal Confession To His Brother-In-Law, Stiles.

A Tell-Tale Watch Is Unearthed On The Breakheart Hill Farm.

SALEM, Mass., March 22.—The last witness in the Best murder case, this afternoon, was William H. Stiles, Best's brother-in-law, from whom was drawn the sensational statement that a week ago last Sunday, Best furnished him with a plan of Breakheart Hill farm, on which was indicated a spot where Best said would be found a watch. He instructed Stiles to get the watch, and "For God's sake," he said, "get rid of it, for if it is found, I am a lost man." Immediately upon hearing this evidence, State Officers Neal, Proctor and Hammond started for the farm in North Saugus, where they were joined by Chief of Police Thompson of Saugus. They made a thorough search of the premises and found, in nearly the exact spot indicated, the watch and a sum of money wrapped in a newspaper. They took the articles and at once started for Haverhill to consult with District Attorney Peters. Mr. Peters absolutely refused to say a word about the matter.

More Details.

LYNN, Mass., March 22.—State Officer Neal did not go to Haverhill, after the search at Breakheart Hill farm, but telephoned to Attorney Peters what had been found and was told to produce the articles in court tomorrow morning. The watch is an open-faced one. The money amounts to seventy-five dollars, which was found in one package. This raises a new question for the government, as it has been trying to account for only between forty and fifty dollars belonging to Bailey, the murdered man. Stiles says he was simply forced to tell what he knew, on the witness stand. Peters in some manner learned what was intimated and when Stiles was under oath, obliged him to tell all that he could. Stiles and his wife have been afraid of Best, who is said to have assaulted their daughter.

STREET MEETINGS FORBIDDEN.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 22.—In connection with the riots here, the prefect has issued a decree forbidding meetings and assemblages in the streets and squares. Persons infringing this legislation are liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding three months and a fine not exceeding 500 roubles (about $800.)

ENJOINED AGAINST STRIKING.

Boston, March 22.—The firemen employed in the breweries of the Massachusetts Brewing companies, in this city, have been enjoined against striking, as was alleged to be threatened, by Judge Brayley, who has issued an injunction against James Kilroy and others of Union No. three.

DISASTROUS MILWAUKEE FIRE.

MILWAUKEE, March 22.—A fire tonight, wiped out completely the big piano factory of William Rohlfing and Son and wrought further destruction to adjoining property, entailing a total loss that will come close to $300,000, fully insured.

BRIGANTINE ASHORE.

LONDON, March 22.—The brigantine Rose went ashore off Whitstable, Kent, on Wednesday. Seven of the crew along to the rigging, but four were swept into the sea and drowned. The others were rescued in an exhausted condition, after exposure for thirty hours.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Forecast for New England: Fair and warmer Saturday, fresh south winds; Sunday increasing cloudiness and rain.

BOTH AGREE TO WITHDRAW.

PERIN, March 22.—Count Von Waldersee, General Barrow and General Wegack have been in consultation, and General Wegack has agreed to withdraw the Russian troops from the disputed ground at Tien-Tsin, provided the British also withdraw.

He insisted also upon a guarantee that work on the railway siding should not proceed until the matter had been diplomatically adjusted. This proposal and stipulation were satisfactory to General Barrow, and were accepted by him.

Consequently the British and Russian troops will be withdrawn at five o'clock this (Friday) morning, thereby avoiding all trouble at present.

The troops on both sides of the disputed land at Tien-Tsin have been withdrawn, and all danger of a fracas is ended.

The opinion of the British is that the promptness of General Barrow in calling up the marines from Taku prevented a collision.

KEEPING OUT OF REACH.

CAPE TOWN, March 22.—The Boer raiders in the eastern part of Cape Colony, with the exception of daily skirmishes, are keeping out of the reach of the British. Col. Scoville engaged Commandants Fouché and Malan near Elsenkrantz, March 20th. Three British were killed and four wounded. Four Boers were killed, but the number of their wounded is not known. Commandant Krizinger is marching steadily northward. It is officially reported that De Wet's commandos have broken up. This is probably to give the men a rest.

NAVAL VESSELS' MOVEMENTS.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—The Winslow has left New York for Norfolk. The Potomac has sailed from Key West for Pensacola. The Hartford has left Providence for New York. The Leyden has left Newport for New York. The Saturn has sailed from Cavite for Hong Kong. The Adams is at Mare Island and the New York and Nero are at Gibraltar.

A ROUGH PASSAGE.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Hear Admiral Rodgers, on the New York, reports a very rough passage across and adds that the vessel lost a thirty foot whaleboat. This incident is regarded as significant of the heavy seas encountered by the New York, whose great height of deck is above the normal water line.

DUKE LEAVES FOR MALTA.

GIBRALTAR, March 22.—The steamship Ophir, with the duke and duchess of Cornwall and York on board, sailed for Malta this morning, the storm which prevailed having subsided. All the warships in port were manned and salutes were fired as the Ophir steamed out of the harbor.

Wild With Eczema

Fire Could Not Have Been More Painful.

"After spending two years in taking all kinds of medicines that were suggested for eczema, but without avail, my mother was induced to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. The result was wonderfully gratifying. Her limbs had been terribly lacerated by the disease, and there were times when fire could not have been more painful. She was, in fact, almost wild. Two bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla completely cured her, and not a trace of eczema was left." E. W. DECKER, Gardiner, N. Y.

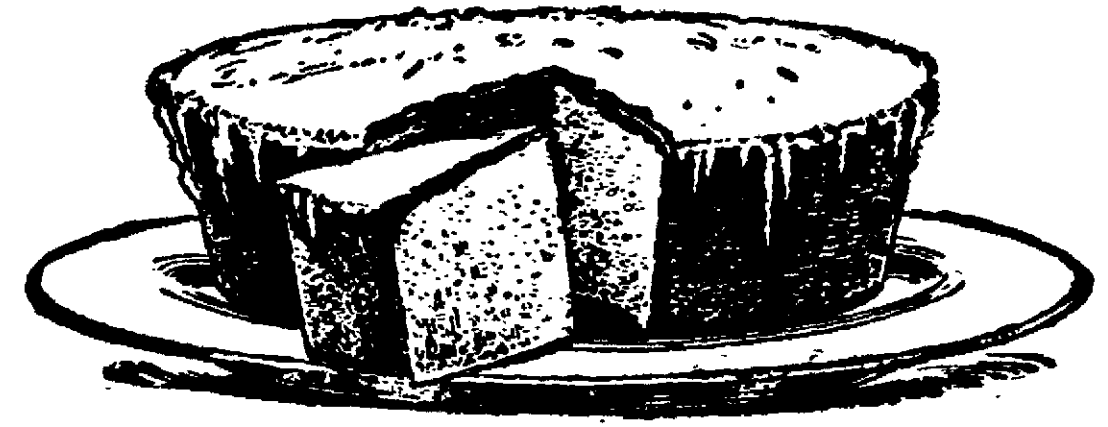

Eat Well; Sleep Well.

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has been a great blessing to me. I was weak, irritable, tired and nervous; had no appetite and was always sad and despondent. One day I got hold of a little book about Hood's Sarsaparilla. I looked it over and resolved to try a bottle. I was better before it was gone, so I kept on until I had taken five bottles. I can now sleep well, feel cheerful and can do all my work, including plain sewing, and I am walk two or three miles a day. I am 55 years old and now feel that life is worth living." Mrs. Emma Smith, 68 E. Mitchell St., Oswego, N. Y.

Critical Period of Life.

"I took Hood's Sarsaparilla during the critical period of my life, and now, at the age of 60 years, I am strong and healthy. It is a great medicine for the blood. I find Hood's to be the best." Mrs. H. Pomroy, 23 Lansing Street, Auburn, N. Y.

You can buy Hood's Sarsaparilla of any druggist. Be sure to ask for Hood's and do not accept any substitute.

ROYAL Baking Powder is indispensable to the preparation of the finest cake, hot-breads, rolls and muffins.

Housekeepers are sometimes importuned to buy other powders because they are "cheap."

Housekeepers should stop and think. If such powders are lower priced, are they not inferior?

Alum is used, in some baking powders and in most of the so-called phosphate powders, because it is cheap, and makes a cheaper powder. But alum is a corrosive poison which, taken in food, acts injuriously upon the stomach, liver and kidneys.

NO TRACE OF JENKINS.

Relatives Expect To Find His Body Floating In The Piscataqua River.

The whereabouts of Horace Jenkins, the Madbury farmer who disappeared from his home on Tuesday morning, the 19th inst., is as much a mystery as ever. The search has been renewed by his brothers and a large number of the neighbors, but no trace of him has been obtained.

The only person, other than Gus Smith, who has probably seen Mr. Jenkins alive since he left home, is Mrs. Walter Davis, who lives on the Durham road. She states that on Tuesday forenoon she saw a man answering the description of Jenkins wandering aimlessly about the pasture back of her house. She mentioned the circumstance to her husband at noon. This was quite near the road from Durham village to the old Piscataqua bridge.

There is now little doubt that Mr. Jenkins has committed suicide, it is stated. If he did so by jumping into Oyster river, the tide has probably carried his body a long distance from the spot where the fatal plunge was made.

THE MASSACHUSETTS OFF.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Navy department officials were relieved of all apprehension concerning the battleship Massachusetts, which ran aground in Pensacola harbor while on her way to sea yesterday, by the receipt of the following telegram from Capt. Reisinger, the commandant of the Pensacola yard, dated at Warrington, Fla., March 22. Massachusetts got off about five p. m. towed by Leonidas outside. Has joined the squadron. Sent lighters to her last night. Will wire particulars later.

AT THE NAVY YARD.

The yard force will be paid today. Chief Gunner Patrick Lynch is on the sick list. The rain did not do any damage to the dry dock.

Civil Engineer John G. Walker, U. S. N., is here on business.

Carpenter W. F. Stevenson is restricted to his residence by illness.

Captain W. T. Swinbourne, U. S. N., has returned from a week's absence in Washington.

The U. S. S. Monongahela will be thoroughly overhauled at this yard during the early summer.

A forty foot steam cutter has been ordered shipped to New York for the use of the captain of the yard.

Hon. John Barrett, ex-minister to Siam, was a visitor to the yard on Friday as the guest of the officers.

The committee is to meet this (Saturday) afternoon, at half past three o'clock. It consists of John W. Kelley, Rev. Alfred Gooding, Capt. J. Louis Harris, Charles F. THE PRISONER OF ZENDA.

The large audience which attended the production of The Prisoner of Zenda, at Music hall, on Friday evening, came away perfectly satisfied with the quality of the performance.

Nothing was slighted that could tend to please. All the roles were well allotted and the company was large enough to provide for the proper amplification of the characters who enter into the play. It was one of the strongest productions put on at the local house this season. The audience was heartily responsive to the capable efforts of the members of the cast, throughout the four acts. The scenic settings merit emphatic praise.

THEATERS IN PARIS.

ALL ARE AT THE MERCY OF PIRATICAL TICKET MONGERS.

These Agents Are In League With the Society of Dramatic Authors and Composers, and the Latter Rule the Theaters With a Rod of Iron.

The great abuse that the theater going public in France has to put up with is the ring of piratical ticket agents who buy up nearly all the good seats whenever there is a popular piece running and at once double or quadruple the prices, owing to their successful corner, which in consequence of vested interests of various sorts, the law is powerless to prevent. These ticket mongers lie in ambush near all the leading theaters and are frequently in league with the "burlesques," or women who, from time beyond memory, have sold places at the regular ticket offices of the theaters.

When asked about the system of selling tickets at the Paris theaters, Mme. Sarah Bernhardt replied: "I have tried in vain to find some way of suppressing the ticket mongers, but this is impossible in France unless the matter be taken up by parliament. The chief obstacle is the Society of the Dramatic Authors and Composers, which is a monopoly and rules all theatrical managers with a rod of iron. It makes contracts with each manager, specifying the amount the society shall take, which is usually 15 per cent of the gross receipts. If the manager refuses to sign the contract, no plays by members of the society can be performed at his theater.
This would close his doors, because every dramatist in France is a member of the society. All this bears directly on the sale of tickets.

The contracts between the different managers require that the author whose work is produced shall be entitled to two frames' worth of tickets, in addition to two dozen seats placed at his disposal for the first and second performances. Besides this, every author who has one act performed at a theater is entitled to one free seat at the theater for every performance during one year, no matter whether it be his own play that is given or the play of some one else. The author who has four or five acts played at a theater is entitled each night to a free seat for five years.
Six acts entitle the author to a free entrance for life. The dramatist who has 12 acts produced at any theater has a right to two free entrances each night for his lifetime, with reversion after death to such third person also for life, who may be named by will.

"You can imagine," continued Mme.
Bernhardt, "how terribly hampered a theatrical manager is in Paris, especially when it is remembered that the assistance publique takes each night for the Paris pools one-tenth of the total gross receipts. But the worst of it is that the author usually transfers the tickets secured to them by the Society of Dramatic Authors and Composers to the ticket mongers or other agents, who sell them at the highest price obtainable. This I consider a real grievance and explains the impossibility of doing away with the ticket mongers. I think the Society of Dramatic Authors is to blame for this."

As M. Victorien Sardou was listening attentively to this conversation, and as he is the president of the Society of Dramatic Authors and Composers, the writer asked him to express his opinion on the subject.
The prince of French playwrights replied:
"The tickets and free entrances allotted to French dramatists by the government reversion constitute vested interests that have accumulated for generations, and to do away with them would be an impossible task. Years ago, when I was just old enough to go to the theater, it was not so bad as it is now. In those days there was a famous theatrical hairdresser to whom all the dramatic authors handed over their tickets to be disposed of, and from whom they often borrowed money.
He got the whole business into his hands and founded the present community of ticket mongers. I quite agree with Mme.
Sarah Bernhardt that it would be impossible to make any change at present."

The explanations given by Mme. Sarah Bernhardt and M. Sardou will enable the American to understand why it is that when he presents his ticket at the entrance of a Paris theater it is not glanced at hastily by a single gateman, as in New York, but is critically examined by three grave officials. One of these is the ticket taker of the theater; another is the government envoy, who verifies the gross receipts, so that the assistance publique may get its one-eleventh, and the third is the agent of the Society of the Dramatic Authors and Composers. Conventionary features of all the Paris theatrical ticket offices are small plaster and wood models of the auditorium, with each seat distinctly numbered, so that the purchaser can see at a glance the position of his seat.

The managers and cloakroom attendants at Paris theaters, as well as the ticket sellers at the ticket office, are invariably women.
The cloakroom women take charge of overcoats, cloaks, umbrellas, etc., for which they give in return a round wooden numbered check. During the last "en-tracte" they will, if so requested, return the garments to the occupants of the boxes or stalls, so that time may be gained in putting them on and leaving the theater.
It is a peculiar custom for men to wear their hats at Paris theaters while the curtain is down. They are always immediately removed, however, as soon as the curtain rises in deference to the performers.
The programmes are sold at the theaters for 25 centimes (5 cents) apiece and contain well executed portraits of the authors actors and actresses, with little scraps of biography, and frequently with short historical sketches of the theater itself.—New York Tribune.

The Only Thing Left.
James Brown is rich and stingy. An acquaintance of his met Brown's son the other day. "Your father seems to have lost a good deal of money lately. The last time I saw him he was complaining and saying he must economize."
"Economize? Did he say where he was going to begin?"
"Yes, on his table, he said."

"Then he must be going to take away the tablecloth," was the flippant declaration.—Exchange.

In a Trice.
Many persons use the phrase "In a trice" who have no conception of its meaning. A trice is the sixtieth part of a second of time. The hour is divided into 60 minutes, the minute into 60 seconds and the second into 60 trices, or thirds, from the Spanish trice.

VULNERABLE.

When unsymmetrical chaos in its night Ruled the dim, desolate earth and hid it bare, In gloom and darkness wandered everywhere Amorphous monsters, brutes of affright, Deep in the vast, impenetrable night They lived and loved, dreading no future care Until their souls were fired to strange despair When light, to dazzle them, created light.
Groups of them through sin and enmity's glow,
I lived in callous stupor strangely dumb, Pleased with a changeless lot as dull time flies, O pardoning woman in thy sunnier bloom, Way to oblivion my dark soul didst thou show.

To haunt me with the splendors of thine eyes!
—Francis S. Salinas in Connecticut Magazine.

GENTLEMAN JACK.

A Short Story of a Mining Camp in Nevada.

They called him "Gentleman Jack." He came to the mining camp at Virginia City one summer's day and asked the superintendent for work. The miner looked at his questioner's white hands, fine figure and neat fitting clothes and smiled. But the man insisted, and finally the superintendent consented to allow him to remain.

That night, when the miners returned to camp, the newcomer was introduced to them as Jack, the only name he gave. His companions smiled as the superintendent had smiled, and, one, turning to his fellows, said, "Gentleman Jack." Jack took his place in the mines and performed his share of the labor. His companions gradually came to respect the man who, evidently unaccustomed to the life they led, yet adapted himself to the conditions as they knew them. Time and time again they sought to assist him, but he would not permit it. Neither did he talk of himself. Once they happened to hear him refer to Chicago, and it was understood it was his former home.

Six months passed. The miners were one day using dynamite to remove the rock. After the explosion Jack was found lying on the ground, crushed by the weight of a huge boulder. Tomorrow they bore him to the hillside. They thought him dead. The blood oozed down his pallid face. His eyes were closed. As they stood about him the eyelids raised, and a smile spread over his features, followed quickly by a terrible look of pain.
His lips quivered, and, bending low, his companions heard a murmur of words.

"Mother, I have not forgotten," was what he said, and then, in long drawn, suffering sounds followed the words, "Our Father—which art in heaven—hallowed be thy name—thy will—be done—on earth—as—And then, though the lips continued to move, no sound was audible.
Those who watched knew, however, that the prayer was finished.

The eyes again closed, the stained, bruised lips smiled—Gentleman Jack was dead. Who he was his comrades did not know. But somewhere a waiting mother may understand as she reads.—

African Currency.

In Africa there are several varieties of unusual money. The following incident gives an example of one mode of using currency:

In west Africa there was an illustrious king, Kamrasi by name, of the Wanyoro tribe. He sent off an expedition provided with 400 mamba, a kind of iron spade money. The expenditure of 2 mamba per diem would provide for the expediter.
With them was carried a magic horn, which protected them from danger.
East central Africa furnishes another form of spade or hoe money made of hammered iron. This is much used by the Bari tribe, who trade with people from the interior. This hoe is of no practical use, except as a portable form of exchange, after barter being converted into weapons and ornaments. At Unna, central Africa, is another form of currency in the shape of a flat cruciform ingot of copper, 9 3/4 inches in length.
Spears formed a currency in use near Stanley Falls as recently as 1893. The iron spear is very well made. In the shaft is an ornament. The whole thing is 5 feet 5 inches in length and could well be used as a weapon. It is a recognized currency at Lovoe Lomanga. A smaller object is from the same district, of a graceful shape, but of no use except as money.—Good Words.

The Bark Explained.
A gentleman had left his dog at his sister's while abroad for a few months, and on his return the animal was so excited that he was not surprised to hear him barking in the night. The barking was so persistent that the owner put on his dressing gown to go down stairs and pat Rover on the head to soothe him. He was no sooner in bed again than the noise recommenced. So he made another journey to point out, with some asperity, that the repetition of the offense would call down serious consequences upon the delinquent.
He was just doing when the barking started more furiously than ever, and continued until he made a third journey with the walking stick.

Soon after, the disturbance began once more. Fortunately the gentleman was too sleepy to get up again, and at last he went off to sleep, vowing to sell the dog next day. When the morning came, however, his sister hoped that he had not been roused by the barking of—her own parrot!
It was always imitating the dog at night, she said.—Chicago News.

Hard on the Children.

Korean school children have a hard time. In the first place, their punishments differ from those of other youngsters.
When a child deserves chastisement, the white-robed schoolmaster whips the offender on the calves of the legs, the victim standing, rather hopping, while the operation is in progress. Lessons are taught from "The Book of the Thousand Characters," the children studying the Korean tongue through the medium of Chinese. Scholars must first learn the Chinese characters and then the Korean meaning of these characters. The master sits on the ground, his class around him.
They are obliged to remove their shoes on entering the schoolroom.

The Betel Nut In Siam.
Everybody in Siam chews the betel nut, with the result that the teeth become a bright black like that of patent leather boots. White teeth are considered as repulsive as black teeth are with us, and decay is unknown among betel chewers.

Another effect of the habit is constant spitting, which covers all the floors and streets of the country with dark red stains resembling splashes of blood.

Children born of mothers under 20 years old do not have as good a chance of healthy life as those born of mothers over 30.

The rain falls on the just and unjust, but the latter nearly always have the former's umbrellas.—Town Topic.

IT IS THE WAY YOU USE IT.

It's the Method Employed Which Makes Success or Failure.

One man with pen, ink and paper can produce a landscape, another man with same pen and ink may not be able to write his own name legibly. It is all in knowing how.

It is equally true in the use of medicines. The same remedies we have today have existed for thousands of years, but it their existence was known the knowledge of how to use them was lacking.

They became valuable to the human race only when experiment and science showed the way to use them to get results.

The grip is an old disease with a new name; it is really catarrh in character and the usual symptoms are those of acute catarrh, but the old time catarrh powders, salves and sprays do not cure it, neither does the application of an-tiseptics (though an inhaler give anything more than relief for a short time.

The antiseptics are all right; they will kill the germs of catarrh and grip if they are applied rightly, but their local application to the nose and throat avail little because the germs are in the blood and through the whole system.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets contain many of these same antiseptics, but are used in sprays and inhalers, but instead of applying them to the inflamed membranes of the nose and throat, they are taken into the stomach and thus reach the blood, the real seat of the disease and drive out the infectious germs through the natural channels of the bowels and kidney.

In other words Stuart's Catarrh Tablets reach the cause of the mischief instead of merely local symptoms.

The remarkable success of these tablets in curing grip, catarrh and throat and lung troubles is because they drive the catarrhal poison from the system and the nose and throat become clear of the excessive secretion of mucus, which causes the hacking, spitting and gagging, because the secretion is not supplied from healthy blood.

Two years ago, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets were unknown but today have become so popular through positive merit that druggists everywhere in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sell them.

Hicks' Story.

It was in 1817 that Hicks first made a country name as a witty raconteur. In that year Sir Samuel Spurr, who had been member for Bathurst since the great reform bill, lost his seat, and in a pertinent poet took legal proceedings against Hicks on the ground that he had abused his official position to influence voters at the poll.
In the course of the trial Hicks was called upon to state what he had to say in his defense.

In the course of his statement he asked leave of the court to illustrate his position by a story. His request being assented to, he related how a few days previously he had been to see a lad whom he knew well who was laid up from a fall from a vicious donkey, which had kicked out all his front teeth. The lad, said Hicks, had taken the matter in the most kindly way, and had said to him, "Isn't the fall, Mr. Hicks, and isn't the valley of the teeth what an-noys me, but isn't the misery, gashly, wish-ous disposition of the jaw?"

Sir Samuel Spurr sprang up in the well of the court in a fury and exclaimed, "He has called me a jackass!" The court was convulsed with laughter, and Hicks was promptly and fully acquitted of the tramp-ery charge brought against him.—Cornhill Magazine.

TEMPLE OF MUSIC—PAN-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Music will be one of the great attractions of the Pan-American Exposition, and a noble building has been erected for entertainment purposes. Concerts will be given by Sousa's Band, The Mexican Government Mounted Band and about twenty five other famous organizations. The auditorium of the Temple of Music has a seating capacity of 2,500, and will contain one of the largest and finest pipe organs in the United States.

PICKUPS AT RANDOM.

THE small boys around town are indulging just at the present time in the earnest sport of bird killing.
Around with air rifles, which have unfortunately regained favor once more the youngsters go gunning. They try to kill for the pure sake of killing, and they think they are having fine sport.
Nine times out of ten, however, their bullets don't kill immediately. The poor feathered creatures, suffering from their wounds, are then left to die lingering deaths. The practice, which seems to be very common among the possessors of the detestable toys, should be squelched, and the quicker the better.

Certainly not in recent years has there been a time when sickness was so prevalent in the state as at present.
Epidemic diseases are raging in different sections, and in some places the schools and churches have been closed, and numerous fatalities have resulted.
There has been scarcely a day since the session of the legislature opened that members of that body have not been excused from attendance on account of the sickness of themselves or families, and at times nearly a fourth of the house has been absent from such reason.

The order of Buffaloes has got into court. A Chicago man tendered a $100 bill in payment for initiation and there was no change coming back, according to the rules of the order. This left $99.89 due him and he has asked the court to get it for him.

"In speaking of oranges," said the fruit vender, "it's funny how people wont buy an orange with seeds in it.
'They don't want them at any price. I suppose one reason is that they can give the navels to children without fear of their being injured by seeds."

Apples raised in this section are bringing fancy prices in Liverpool now, where they are quoted from $1.25 to $5.75 a barrel. Over one thousand barrels were shipped to that port from Portland last week. The great factor of success in this line has proved to be the fact that the farmers are paying more attention to the packing of their barrels.

The passage of the shore boulevard bill by the legislature is fit cause for rejoicing in this section. It means the promotion of the natural scenic advantages of New Hampshire's coast line, for summer visitors, and will further more ensure the employment of many men from Portsmouth and vicinity on the construction of the road. It now remains for Governor Jordan to name a commission to supervise the operations.
There is no doubt that his excellency will select capable men for the task.

The new Country club appears to have a most brilliant future. Under its promotion, if all the plans of its organizing spirits are fulfilled, it will receive a notable boom and other forms of open air diversion will get a considerable impetus. That the club will be on a good sound basis is indicated by the fact that at the meeting on Friday evening, three of our most prominent clergymen were present and showed much interest in the organization.

The Warner club members are feeling justly proud of their basket ball team. This is its first season at the game and it has succeeded in defeating the D. D. Johnson and Company B, both of which clubs have had three seasons' experience at the sport. If the season could be prolonged a couple of months more, the fellows in the club believe that their representatives would make a round robin victory over all this town.

The fishing schooner Eliza B. Campbell is ashore on an eastern point of Duck Island, Isles of Shoals, and has been badly damaged. The schooner went ashore between 2 and 3 o'clock this morning.

She is hard and fast on the rocks.
She has 40,000 halibut on board. The life saving crew from Wallis Sands went out to the craft this morning and offered any assistance they were able to give.

Word has been sent to Gloucester for a tug.

LATER.—The tug Piscataqua went to the Shoals after the crew and returned with them this afternoon. The schooner is going to pieces on the rocks. The crew were sent to their homes in Gloucester.

CITY BRIEFS.

This is a little more like spring.

The Portsmouth Herald says that the idle tongue of a woman caused the ruin of a bank at Natick, but the press reports indicate that the trouble lay in too active a tongue, and that this was one of the times when idleness would have been profitable.—Haverhill Gazette.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

The home of Dr. and Mrs. F. M. Varrell, on Austin street, was the scene of a very happy party on Friday, from five o'clock in the afternoon until seven in the evening, when their youngest daughter, Frances, celebrated the ninth anniversary of her birth by playing the part of hostess to a number of her friends. The entertainment afforded was most enjoyable, consisting of various diversions suitable to the occasion.
The table upon which tea was served was handsomely decorated with flowers.
The repast was a most delectable one and the young folks enjoyed every minute of their visit. The youthful hostess was very apt in her role of welcome and purveyor to the pleasure of her guests.

It is not often that a fellow, who he sees a $10 bill, thinks that it is gone enough to eat, but George Laskey seems to have been almost of that opinion.

SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1901.

March seems to be walking around in some of April's old clothes.

The death of Charles P. Clark at Nice, France, removes a distinguished son of New Hampshire.

A man has been arrested in Portland for breaking into a grocery store and stealing twenty-five dozen of eggs. He probably thinks that the man who had him arrested for the crime is an old hen.

It is announced that the Daughters of the Revolution are to keep reporters out of their congresses hereafter. It is natural. If there is anything to be said, the Daughters want to be the ones to say it.

The Biddeford Record asks if it is really river water that causes so much typhoid fever in the city and asks if it be so, how it happens that so large a percentage of the cases are in families which do not use river water for drinking? Possibly what isn't used for bathing purposes is left standing around too long before it is used for fuel.

It appears that the important change in the new code of fish and game laws enacted by the legislature which makes it unlawful to dispose by sale of woodcock and partridge is very pleasing to sportsmen, who look upon this as a severe blow at the market hunter, who in recent years has had the cream of game bird shooting in New Hampshire, while the sportsman has had to put up with the leavings. The "pot" fisherman also received a staggering blow in that the sale of brook trout is prohibited. There is nothing in the laws to prevent a person from securing the services of an angler to procure for him a mess of trout for his table, but the marketing of fish, as well as that of woodcock and partridge is tabooed. This new law places New Hampshire on an equality with Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut and Vermont. With reference to big game the law stands practically where it did before the legislature convened. The period of protection in the southern part of the state has been extended indefinitely, while in the northern part, where deer, moose and caribou shooting has been legal during stated intervals, the law is in the main unaffected.

In view of the fact that the mustering out of upward of 25,000 volunteer troops within the next three months will necessarily call forth a large number of applications for pensions, the measures adopted by the war department to prevent frauds and protect deserving claimants are at once timely and admirable, says the New York Mail and Express. Under an order issued by the secretary of war, these troops, both officers and men, will be subjected to a rigid physical examination immediately prior to their muster out. Each individual will be required to fill and sign a blank describing his physical condition, and this report will be transmitted to the mustering officer, who will then cause a physical examination to be made. Where an officer or enlisted man claims to have a disability he will be immediately examined by a board of three medical officers, whose report will be turned over to the adjutant-general in order that deserving claimants may be pensioned with the least possible delay. This arrangement is an excellent one for the volunteers as well as for the government. It is a thorough safeguard against padding the pension rolls, and it is at the same time a great advantage to the men who are justly entitled to pensions, inasmuch as it will enable them to establish their claims without expense or delay. To allow so large a body of troops to disperse to their homes without being examined would almost certainly have been followed by a little deluge of unwarranted claims.

Agent For Victoria's Life Tried To Sell The Book To deGinzburg, The Boer.

One of the funniest things that happened on Friday took place in front of Green's drug store in the afternoon. The story is told by Bill Allen. It is a good one.

Prof. Allen was polishing the shoes of the Boer lecturer, Baron H. L. deGinzburg. Bill was attending to his business and the Boer wasn't saying a word, when along the street came an old, white haired man with a pair of spectacles on his nose and a book under his arm.

The old fellow stopped as he reached the immediate vicinity of Bill and the Boer. He looked down at the shoe artist and saw that the man whose shoes were being polished had nothing else to occupy his attention, then opened up his book to the view of the man from the country of lilac bushes and asked if he could show the man a life of Victoria.

Up to this time, Bill did not know who his customer was. He knew right off quick that the man asked to look at the book had no use for it, but the old book agent was a little deaf. He did not understand what the answer was, but he knew, evidently from the appearance of the Boer's face, that something was wrong. Holding his hand to his ear the agent directed his conversation to Bill and wanted to know what had been said.

"He says he is a Boer," said Bill. The old man pulled down his spectacles and almost dropped his book in amazement as he looked at the man he had asked to buy the life of the British queen.

He gathered himself together as best he could and saying "Very well," as nicely as possible, started along the street again.

And Bill Allen, who knows a good thing when he sees it, says, "Wouldn't that make you worse?"

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The membership roll increases daily. Rev. R. L. Dutton is to direct the bible class.

Secretary Hoehn is to select a site for the location of the camp for the Boys' brigade, this summer.

Secretary Hoehn has changed his office to the room at the rear of the reading room, and has had the same fitted up in a very neat and convenient manner.

The religious meetings will be opened on Sunday afternoon in U. V. U. hall at three o'clock. Rev. V. M. Morse will speak, his subject being "Personality." All men are welcome.

The first practical talk in the series to be given the members and friends of the association will be held at the rooms at eight o'clock this (Saturday) evening. Baron H. L. deGinzburg of Pretoria, of the Transvaal secret service, will speak in an informal way concerning his experience in the South African war.

DEAFNESS CANNOT BE CURED

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

CHANGE IN TIME-TABLE.

The spring time table of the Portsmouth, Kittery and York street railway will go into effect on Sunday. Cars will run hourly to York Beach until six o'clock, in the evening, leaving the ferry landing five minutes before the hour instead of ten minutes, as at the present time. There will be only two trips to York after six in the evening, at eight and ten o'clock.

THIS SATURDAY EVENING.

Return of That Greatest Play, When We Were Twenty-One, at Music Hall.

It is very seldom that a theatrical production is worthy of editorial mention, but of When We Were Twenty-One, which returns to Music Hall this Saturday evening, for the second time this season, the Lewiston Sun of Feb. 25, last, says in its editorial column:

When We Were Twenty-One as presented at Music Hall (Lewiston) seems to us what a play ought to be.

The excellence of the presentation has already been noticed. Though the disagreeable part of the young fool is better done than he is getting credit for. His passionate self-importance in telling his devoted friends how much better his judgment is than theirs, in preferring the scarlet woman to the lovely Phyllis, is delightfully exasperating. His quarrel with Dick after the catastrophe is well done.

But what makes one want to speak here of the play is the thoroughly sound moral lesson it teaches. After seeing the lovely Phyllis and her mother at Dick's home and then seeing those women at the Corinthian Club, who would hesitate for a moment as to which company he himself would be in. The contrast is made all the more effective by finding one's self taken from the happy home to the hateful club and back again to the home, to fall in love more than ever with Phyllis and Dick.

And what greater heroism is there than Dick's? It doesn't require a remarkable man to dare all sorts of things for the woman he loves; but to think of a refined gentleman associating himself with a scarlet woman to save a fool boy from her clutches!

We believe there is no sounder instruction in good morals, nor more powerful, than is found in such a play as When We Were Twenty-One except, indeed, in the good lives of the good people we are about us. Surely there is no more delightful way of receiving instruction.

THREE WEEKS OF VOTING

How the Pan-American Contest Now Looks.

The Contestants of Course Keeping Back Thousands of Votes.

The Several Changes Made in the List by the Voting Today.

The third week of the Herald's Pan-American contest is finished today and the scramble for votes is well under way and the systems that have been made by the friends of the contestants seem to be in good working order.

There are thousands of votes that are being held back, as it may be expected. The figures in the list that is now printed cannot give any idea of how the matter will look later on.

There are the usual changes in the list today. The additions that have been made result in the following figures:

Harold N. Hett, Portsmouth Bicycle club.	485
John F. Leary, A. O. H.,	445
Dennis J. Lynch, Kearsarge Engine Co.,	328
Col. John P. Tibbets, Gen. Gilman Marston command, U. V. U.,	315
William S. Ewald, Chemical Engine Co. No. 5,	183
Charles W. Hanson, K. G. E.,	154
Charles H. Kehoe, M. H. Goodrich Co.,	56
Charles D. Varrell, Sagamore S. F. E. Co.,	41
John Haw, W. J. Sampson, H. & L. Co.,	21
Capt. Horace E. Peverly, Co. E, N. H. N. G.,	12
Edwin F. Rowe, Warner club	11
W. J. Kehoe, P. C. C.,	8
George Jones, Kearsarge Engine Co.,	7
Fred Manson, M. H. Goodrich Co.,	5
John A. Harmon, assistant engineer, P. F. D.,	2

The conditions of the contest are as follows, a most liberal offer:

The Portsmouth Herald agrees to send three residents of Portsmouth, who are either members of the Portsmouth fire department, a social club or of some secret society, to the Pan-American exposition, pay all their expenses from the time they leave, until they return, including a week in Buffalo, with board and lodging and admission to the exposition daily.

This offer beats anything ever announced by any newspaper in New England, and is so far above the expense and interest of a trip to the national inauguration that it cannot be mentioned in the same class.

The contest will not be restricted to gentlemen but will be open to any lady who is a member of the various secret societies or auxiliary societies in Portsmouth.

The trip will include stop over privileges en route and returning and first class accommodations will be provided. In order that every detail of the grand tour may be properly looked after, the publishers will either send an agent in advance or with the party to make arrangements.

Everybody knows that the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo is to be grander and greater in every way than the World's fair and the visit will be the event of a lifetime.

The contest opened on Monday, March 4, when the first ballot appeared and which will appear daily until June 1, next, the last ballot to appear on the latter date, and the three persons having the greatest number of votes will have the grand privilege that has been offered. The last ballots must be received at the Herald office by 7.30 p. m., on Wednesday June 5, and the results of the contest will be announced at the earliest possible date.

This is an opportunity never before equalled in this section of the country and well worth the attention of every one eligible for such a trip. Vote early and vote often. Fleet yourself.

HAMPTON IS LIVELY.

Much Activity at the Beach in Preparation for the Summer Season.

A visit to Hampton beach shows that much is going on there at present in preparation for the opening of the summer season. The remodeling of the Casino is nearly completed. The building has been enlarged at the north by 12 feet, formerly utilized for the band piazza. The interior, too, has been greatly changed. On the second floor the old theatre has been converted into a dining hall, which can be connected with the old hall. Down stairs the old check room has received a glass front, and at either end will be soda fountains with lunch counters between. Another dining room opened on the front floor will allow the Casino to cater to many more patrons than ever before.

The street railway's bath house has been moved directly back, and on the site thus vacated the frame is raised for the new opera house, which will be a handsome two story building.

Landlord John G. Cutler of the Sea View has had fifteen pleasant rooms added to his hostelry. At the Washington house improvements are being made, and at the Bay View Proprietor Jenkins has built an addition during the winter which gives another dining room and six chambers. The new hotel built by Mrs. Nellie Wightman of New market, back of the Casino oval, is receiving its finishing touches. It will be named the New Central house.

KITTERY.

Miss Dorra Cook returned home today from a short visit to Boston.

Harry Emmons is the guest of his parents, Rev. and Mrs. H. V. Emmons of Kittery Point.

The annual report of the town officers for the year ending March 1 is being distributed around town.

Mrs. Jane Perry, who has been passing the winter in West Medford and Dover, returned to her home here today. She was accompanied by her granddaughter, Miss Helen Ireland.

Mrs. Henry Anderson is very ill at her home in Kittery Point. Mrs. Anderson was attacked by the grip and was apparently improving when she was attacked by a hemorrhage from the lungs.

At the Second Christian church on Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. E. C. Hall, will preach on "The Meaning of the Transfiguration," and in the evening the subject will be "The Betrayal of Jesus and the Agony in the Garden."

The new landing stage from the steamer Alice Howard at Badger's island is liked very much by the traveling public. The stage has long been needed and is as good as made intentionally for the place. The old hull of the Newmarket, the real stage, is shaped just right for good landings. There will be a railing put on the side next to the pier.

KITTERY VOTERS ATTENTION.

To the Voters of Kittery:—Every voter should be at the polls on Monday morning next at 9 o'clock sharp, and should cast the straight republican ticket headed by Calvin L. Hayes for moderator and Clarence M. Prince for town clerk. It is important that every man should be at the polls early and remain until the close, as many important questions will come before the voters. A careful perusal of the town report is earnestly recommended. The present town officials should be endorsed.

Cat Tattles.

The other day I heard of a cat which had been trained to rattle a certain door when she wished to go out. Her owner, it seems, had set apart for the cat's use a special chair in the sitting room, and one day inadvertently occupied it while the cat was in the room. Meanwhile the cat roamed restlessly about, trying first one place and then another, until, finding that her mistress still sat stolidly in this special chair, she deliberately went to the outer door, rattled it, and when her mistress came to let her out turned around and ran back to the sitting room, perching herself on the chair with an air of triumphant satisfaction, much to the amazement of her mistress. —Boston Transcript.

Put Your Best Foot First. People who habitually depreciate themselves, who keep their best stock on the top shelf and put their worst goods in the windows, may expect to be taken at their own valuation. One of the ingredients of success in this age of competition is an unwavering self confidence, and another is a habit of making the most of whatever talent or acquisition is one's own and therefore an element of advantage. This is very different from mere conceit, from vanity and blustering. For the carrying on of life agreeably, for intercourse with society and for daily happiness we should cultivate the accomplishment which puts the best foot first.—Collier's Weekly.

KILLED SIX CHILDREN.

Mother.

THEN TRIED TO COMMIT SUICIDE.

Woman Gives No Reason For Her Horrible Act—She Is in a Very Precious Condition.

Coldbrook, Mass., March 22.—Mrs.
Lizzie Naramore, while in a fit of insane, killed her entire family of six children at her home, a farmhouse half a mile from this village, and then tried to take her own life. The children ranged from 10 years to a babe of 10 months, and their lives were taken by the mother with an ax and a club.
Then she laid the blood drenched bodies on the beds, two on one bed
and the other four on a bed in another room. Mrs. Naramore then attempted to take her own life by cutting her throat with a razor.

Nothing was known of the crime until the milkman came along. He wondered at not seeing the children playing about the house and on reaching the door found it closed by a "Dutch lock." The curtains were closely drawn at every window except one looking in at the kitchen.

Peeping through this the milkman saw blood on the floor and suspected murder had been committed. Jumping into his wagon, the man drove into the village at a breakneck speed, alarming the citizens. A crowd hurried to the house, and the door was broken in.

On the kitchen floor lay Mrs. Naramore, apparently dying. The bodies of the children were found on the beds, as above described.

Woman May Die.

At about 9 o'clock last night Mrs.
Naramore experienced a change for the worse, and it was believed she would not live through the night. Her husband has been in the hotel, but he has not made any request to see her since his arrival.

When he reached his house, he asked
his wife why she killed the children, but he was unable to secure any response.

Later, after stimulants had been given, she told a connected story of the crime and added that the razor which she used to cut her throat had been thrown into the stove. A careful examination of the premises has proved unsuccessful in locating the razor.
The ax, covered with blood, was found on the floor, while the club, a piece of white oak 2½ feet long and 1½ inches thick, used in killing the youngest child, was also on the floor.

The bodies of the children are at the Naramore house all ready for burial, but it has not yet been decided whether an inquest will be held or not.
It has been found also that Mrs.
Naramore cut a gash on each leg in

MURDERED HIS CHILDREN.

Jacob Marr Uses Ax to Kill Two Girls and Boy.

Bangor, March 22.—Jacob Dearborn
Marr, living with his family on a farm seven miles from the town of Clinton, with an ax killed his three children, Alice, 13; Edwin, 9; Helen, 7.
Marr had been despondent for some time, complaining of illness and headaches. The father when asked why he did it replied:

"Because I pitied them."
Marr was arrested and taken to Waterville. He is a farmer, 52 years old, in fairly comfortable circumstances,
with no apparent troubles. The children were bright and attractive, and the family was always happy. Marr's reputation is excellent for industry and sobriety. Insanity is the only theory for the deed. When questioned after the arrest, he had a vague recollection of what he had done, but was unable
said emphatically that he had no idea of killing his wife.

Chicago Warehouse Burned.

Chicago, March 22.—Fire last night totally destroyed the large warehouse
of J. S. Ford, Johnson & Co. at Sixteenth street and Wabash avenue. The building and everything inside was ruined. The north, south and east walls of the building collapsed while a number of firemen were inside fighting the fire. They were compelled to drop their hose and run for their lives. Several were badly bruised by falling bricks. A panic was created among the thousands of spectators, and in a wild rush to escape injury by the falling walls many women and children were knocked down and trampled upon.

Famous Telegraph Dead.

Milwaukee, March 22.—E. M. Shape, one of the oldest telegraph men in this country, has died here of acute pneumonia. Mr. Shape had been chief operator of the Western Union Telegraph company at this point for the past 33 years and served throughout
the civil war as operator on the staff of General Grant. He held the record as one of the most perfect Morse transmitters in the history of the telegraph.

Railway Merger Pending.

Springfield, O., March 22.—General Superintendent McKelvey of the Ohio Southern railway, who has just returned from the east, admitted that there probably will be a consolidation of the Ohio Southern and the Detroit and Lima Northern within 60 days. According to Mr. McKelvey, the Clover Leaf is not in the deal.

Berlin, March 22.—The Swedish schooner Swan, Captain Eriksson, is reported lost in the Baltic, off Staber Huk.

THE LATEST IN EASELS.

2—But, no, he's merely too lazy to carry an easel.

A CONCEALED IDENTITY.

Consider It Necessary.

"Is Benjamin K. Jones in his room?"
asked a typically bustling business man
of one of the clerks at a fashionable hotel yesterday. The inquirer had arrived on one of the morning trains.
Of course I'd know his handwriting."
The clerk replied, "He hasn't arrived yet."
"But he is here, and I have a telegram making an appointment to meet him here at 11." Telegram produced and shown, signed "Benjamin."

"Let's see the list of arrivals on Sunday. Perhaps that will solve the mystery." This from the business man.
"Jones is my partner and is engineering
an important deal. I wonder if—um—
His finger traced the list quickly and stopped at the name, "J. K. Benjamin, Washington," so plainly written that there could be no mistaking it. "Oh, I see! Um-um-um! Yes, yes! Send my card to Mr. Benjamin's room at once!"
"Mr. Benjamin is in the cafe at breakfast, sir, and you will excuse me, but you asked for Mr. Jones, you know?"
"That's all right, my boy. You did right to treat me as you would any one else in this matter. I'll go in and join him at breakfast."

It was only one of the little comedies of hotel life in a big city, and yet it opened up some speculations. Was it Jones or was it Benjamin? Suppose the man of two names should die suddenly in his room.
Who would he be? If fire should destroy the hotel and its occupants and only the hotel register be saved, J. K. Benjamin, Washington, would have been recorded as being the lost. Yet here such person was in the hotel—at least wasn't the name of the man so registered.

"I knew," said the clerk, "that it was Jones that was in the cafe, and I know his partner; knew them at hotels further down town, where they used to stop. Jones is interested in several big concerns in the west, and occasionally comes east to carry through some big deal that he doesn't want to trust to his buyers. He doesn't want his rivals in business or other firms than the one he is doing business with to know that he is in town. So, instead of signing his own name, he twists the initials and for end and escapes attention that he does not care for. He has been carrying on that simple little deception for years.
Both he and his partner know that I know all about it. But if I should ever make the mistake of acknowledging it to either, they would never stop here again, or else I should have to go. Oh, the clerks are not the only cranks one runs across in the

A Rude Prince.

It has not always been wise to look to a royal court for the epitome of polite society. Witness this quotation from the "Countess Potocka," a recollection of Princess Czartoryska, an incident of the court life of Joseph II. at Berlin.
One day, at the end of dinner, she related that she had known Prince Kannitz, who had a varied reputation, and incidentally one for impudence. Having fine teeth, he attended to them without the slightest regard for his guests. As soon as the table was cleared his valet put a mirror, a basin and brushes before him, and then he began to brush his teeth. Witness this quotation from the "Countess Potocka," a recollection of Princess Czartoryska, an incident of the court life of Joseph II. at Berlin.

All the unimportant detail of costume also adds to the variety of a picture, but in portraits, in expression, there is true only this one woman of the end of the century, a creature of such physique, clothed, or un clothed, like a royal princess. Compare her with the pictured woman of 100 or 200 years ago and see how altogether changed is this "eternal feminine." In 60 years' time there will be produced another "beauty," but one ventures to predict it will have a great sameness as the beauty which commands our admiration in the portrait exhibitions of the past day and which shows that fashionable painters are loyal to their subjects' will.—Boston

SLEEPING IN THE DARK.

Pain Seems Easier to Bear When the Sufferer Has Light.

All who have suffered from toothache know to their sorrow that the pain increases as the night grows older. A toothache which during the day interfered but little with our enjoyment of life is likely to develop during the hours of darkness
into a veritable terror, that makes us curse the accident of our birth. It is the same with an earache, asthmatic troubles,
etc. Asthma is most likely to develop into a smothering nightmare between the hours of 10 p. m. and 6 a. m.

At the Vienna university Dr. Goldscheider has told the reason in a paper read before his class. He thinks the darkness prevailing in the average bedroom is at fault. Light, he says, plays a greater part in the pathology of aches than most people imagine. These are, generally speaking, the healthiest members of the human family who live in sunlight, well

If in daytime we are stricken with pain, our suffering is certainly less, relatively speaking, than they would be if the
and sunshine soothe our feelings and do not allow us to abandon ourselves to the feeling of pain.

When night comes, the painful sensations increase. They are bearable as long as we are in the gas or lamplight, but become intense the moment we stretch out in bed, enveloped by stillness and darkness. A lessening of the pain is observable only after sunrise.

"What does it mean?" asks the doctor.
"That darkness and stillness are not conducive to the comfort of sick people.
Therefore I say, if you have pains in the evening, do not rob yourself of the soothing effects of a lamp. In ninety-nine out of a hundred cases the presence of a light in the sickroom alleviates pain."

For the same reasons do not let your children sleep in the dark if they prefer a light. The denial of a night light has made children ill with heart disease. If children refuse to sleep in the dark, it may be assumed that there is some physical or mental reason for it which we ought to respect.

"From the above rules nervous people are exempt. Some of them absolutely refuse to find rest until all is quiet and dark about them. I have found that in cases of neuritis, a neuralgic pain in one side of the head, nothing would do but to place the patient in an absolutely dark and still room, if possible at the top of the house. I

CITY BRIEFS

Flounders are now taking the hooks and are appearing in the market in goodly numbers.

Southern crows are arriving in full force. At times they come in droves to thick they actually darken the sky.

The nineteenth annual encampment of the New Hampshire division, Sons of Veterans, will be held in Concord, April 3d and 4th.

A wheelman's tool bag isn't complete without a bottle of Dr. Thomas's Electric Oil. Heals cuts, bruises, stings, sprains. Monarch over pain.

The docket for the April term of the supreme court, to open in Exeter April 3d, contains 263 civil actions, 73 equity cases, 18 state actions and appeals and one case in sessions.

Every family should have its household medicine chest, and the first bottle in it should be Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, nature's remedy for coughs and colds.

Several theater parties are being formed in York to attend the production of When We Were Twenty-One at Music hall this (Saturday) evening. A late car will be run to York after the performance.

Itchiness of the skin, horrible plague. Most everybody afflicted in one way in one way or another. Only one safe, never failing cure—Doan's Ointment. At any drug store, 50 cents.

There is considerable good natured rivalry between the Wattawamats and Delapouns over their coming basketball game at York next Monday evening, and the lovers of this sport are expecting a crack a-jack game.

When We Were Twenty-One, with Mr. William Morris and a great cast, will, by request, play a return engagement at Music hall this evening. As presented a short time ago, it proved one of the best attractions of the season.

At an auction sale of antique treasure now going on in New York, four pieces are mentioned in The Tribune as worthy of special notice. Three of them are "a rare old Chippendale hall clock, with brass face, made by Timothy Chandler, of Concord, N. H.; an old china cabinet, with quaint diamond panes and fine inlaying, showing a rare specimen of Chippendale work, and a colonial mahogany sideboard from the old Ladd estate of Portsmouth, N. H."

There was no Saturday morning session of police court.

There have been a few clouds of dust raised by the wind today.

A quarterly session of the Rockingham district lodge, I O G T, will be held at Hampton next Friday.

You should not feel tired all the time—healthy people don't—you won't if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla for a while.

The legislature of New Hampshire is not the only one to adjourn this week, as the general courts for Maine and New Jersey will do likewise.

The approaching marriage of Mr. C. F. Hussey of Portsmouth and Miss Julia B. Preble, formerly of York, is announced. Mr. Hussey is a young man of excellent capabilities and is established in Portsmouth as an optician. He has built and furnished a beautiful home at Kittery Point, where they will reside.—Old York Transcript.

The compromise between the conflicting street railroad interests as to the right to build a road at Seabrook beach brings a very happy ending to the affair. It is evident that the roads will be built at once, and that by this means a continuous shore line will be opened up from Salisbury to Hampton and Rye beaches, which is certain to be come popular in the summer days.—Newburyport News.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Pearl street church will hold an Easter sale and entertainment at their vestry next Wednesday evening. Aprons and fancy articles will be for sale; also ice cream cake and confectionery. Arrangements are perfected for an excellent literary and musical entertainment, consisting of readings by two elocutionists, whistling solos, vocal and instrumental music, including piano, castanets and graphophone. Admission ten cents.

Mr. William Morris and an excellent cast in When We Were Twenty-One scored an enormous success when last seen in this city, and will play a return engagement at Music hall this Saturday evening. The story of When We Were Twenty-One is simple. It turns on the determination of a middle-aged bachelor to save the son of his dead friend from the folly of youth. He takes the boy's sins on his own shoulders and and the sacrifice which he makes results eventually in his own happiness. In all the action, realism is rampant, but there is always underlying it a pure sentiment, wholesome and true.

STRIKES A RICH FIND.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes P. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them. THE LAWMAKING IS OVER Legislature Has Taken Final Adjournment For the Year.

242 Bills and 49 Resolves Have Been Made Into Laws.

Matters Among Them of Interest to This Community.

The general court for the year 1901 has come to a close.

The grand total of bills and joint resolutions that have reached the house of representatives this session was 529; 411 of the former and 118 of the latter. Of these, 242 bills and 49 resolves have been enacted into law, Governor Josiah stating Friday noon that he has signed that number which were all that had come to him for his official consideration. KILLED SIX CHILDREN.

Mother.

Horrible Act—She is in a Very Precarious Condition.

Coldbrook, Mass., March 22.—Mrs.
Lizzie Naramore, while in a fit of insanity, killed her entire family of six children at her home, a farmhouse half
a mile from this village, and then tried
to take her own life. The children
ranged from 10 years to a babe of 10 months, and their lives were taken by
the mother with an ax and a club.
Then she laid the blood drenched
bodies on the beds, two on one bed
and the other four on a bed in another
to take her own life by cutting her throat with a razor.

Nothing was known of the crime until the milkman came along. He wondered at not seeing the children play-
the door found it closed by a "Dutch
lock." The curtains were closely drawn at every window except one
looking in at the kitchen.

Peeping through this the milkman
saw blood on the floor and suspected
into his wagon, the man drove into the
the citizens. A crowd hurried to the house, and the door was broken in.

On the kitchen floor lay Mrs. Narmore, apparently dying. The bodies of the children were found on the beds, as above described.

Woman May Die.

At about 9 o'clock last night Mrs.
Naramore experienced a change for
the worse, and it was believed she
would not live through the night. Her
since his arrival.

When he reached his house, he asked
his wife why she killed the children, but he was unable to secure any response.

Later, after stimulants had been given, she told a connected story of
which she used to cut her throat had been thrown into the stove. A careful examination of the premises has proved unsuccessful in locating the razor.
The ax, covered with blood, was found
on the floor, while the club, a piece of white oak 2 1/2 feet long and 1 1/2 inches thick, used in killing the youngest child, was also on the floor.

The bodies of the children are at
the Naramore house all ready for
burial, but it has not yet been decided
whether an inquest will be held or not.
It has been found also that Mrs.
Naramore cut a gash on each leg in
an attempt to cut the arteries.

Girls and Boy.

Bangor, March 22.—Jacob Dearborn
Marr, living with his family on a farm seven miles from the town of Clinton, was killed by his three children, Alice, 13; Edwin, 9; Helen, 7.
Marr had been despondent for some time, complaining of illness and headaches. The father when asked why he did it replied:

"Because I pitied them."

Marr was arrested and taken to Waterville. He is a farmer, 62 years old,
in fairly comfortable circumstances,
with no apparent troubles. The children were bright and attractive, and
the family was always happy. Marr's reputation is excellent for industry and sobriety. Insanity is the only theory for the deed. When questioned after
of what he had done, but was unable
said emphatically that he had no idea
of killing his wife.

Chicago Warehouse Burned.

Chicago, March 22.—Fire last night
totally destroyed the large warehouse
of J. S. Ford, Johnson & Co. at Sixteenth street and Washburn avenue. The building and everything inside was ruined. The north, south and east walls of the building collapsed while a number of firemen were inside fighting the fire. They were compelled to throw their hose and run for their lives. Several were badly bruised by falling bricks. A panic was created among the thousands of spectators, and in a wild rush to escape injury by the falling walls many women and children were knocked down and trampled upon.

Famous Telegrapher Dead.

Milwaukee, March 22.—E. M. Shape,
one of the oldest telegraph men in this country, has died here of acute pneumonia. Mr. Shape had been chief operator of the Western Union Telegraph company at this point for the past 35 years and served throughout
the civil war as operator on the staff of General Grant. He held the record as one of the most perfect Morse transmitters in the history of
the telegraph.

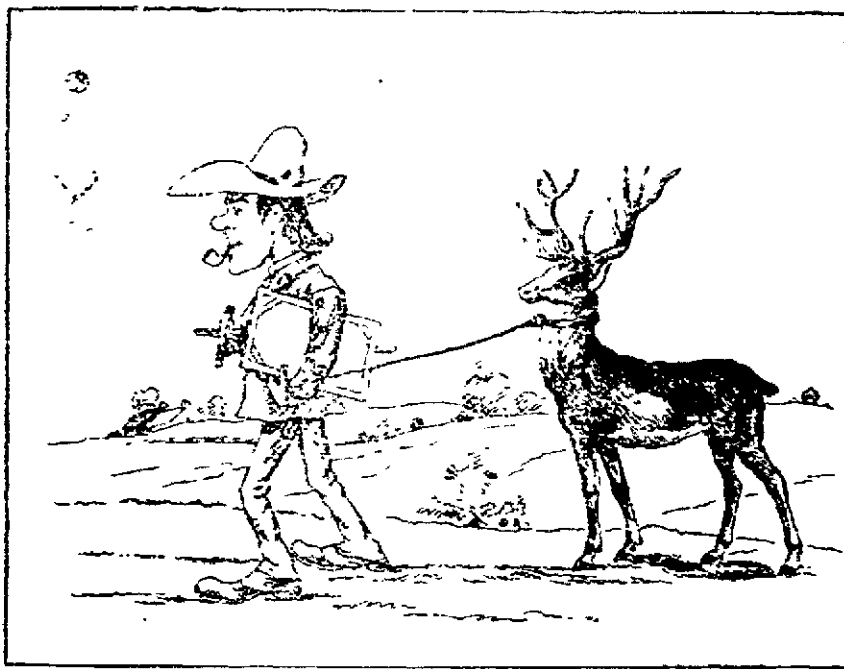

Railway Merger Pending.

Superintendent McKelvey of the Ohio Southern railway, who has just returned from the east, admitted that there probably will be a consolidation of the Ohio Southern and the Detroit and Lima Northern within 60 days. According to Mr. McKelvey, the Clover Leaf is not in the deal.

Beylin, March 22.—The Swedish schooner Swan, Captain Erickson, is reported lost in the Baltic, off Staber hook.

A CONCEALED IDENTITY.

Traveling Business Men Sometimes
Consider It Necessary.

asked a typically bustling business man
of one of the clerks at a fashionable hotel yesterday. The inquirer had arrived on one of the morning trains.

"Not here at all, sir; probably hasn't arrived yet," roushanded the clerk.

"But he is here, and I have a telegram making an appointment to meet him here at 11." Telegram produced and shown, signed "Benjamin."

"Let's see the list of arrivals on Sunday. Perhaps that will solve the mystery." This from the business man.

"Jones is my partner and is engineering
an important deal. I wonder if—um—
Of course I'd know his handwriting."

His finger traced the list quickly and stopped at the name, "J. K. Benjamin, Washington," so plainly written that there could be no mistaking it. "Oh I see!— Um—um—um! Yes, yes! Send my card to Mr. Benjamin's room at once."

"Mr. Benjamin is in the cafe at breakfast, sir, and you will excuse me, but you asked for Mr. Jones, you know."

right to treat me as you would any one else in this matter. I'll go in and join
him at breakfast."

It was only one of the little comedies of hotel life in a big city, and yet it opened up many speculations. Was it Jones or was it Benjamin? Suppose the man of two names should die suddenly in his room.

Who would he be? If the should die the hotel and its occupants, and only the hotel register be saved, J. K. Benjamin, Washington, would have been recorded as among the lost. Yet no such person was in the hotel—at least wasn't the name of the man so registered.

"I knew," said the clerk, "that it was Jones that was in the cafe, and I knew his partner; knew them at hotel's further down town, where they used to stop. Jones is interested in several big concerns in the west, and occasionally comes east to carry through some big deal that he doesn't care to trust to his buyers. He doesn't want his rivals in business or other firms that
the one he is doing business with to know
his own name, he twists the initials end for end and escapes attention that he does
that simple little deception for years."

Both heard his partner knew that I know all about it. But if I should ever make the mistake of acknowledging it to either,
they would never stop here again, or else I should have to go. Oh, the clerks are not the only cranks one runs across in the

A Rude Prince.

It has not always been wise to look to a royal court for the etiquette of polite society. Witness this quotation from the "Countess Potocka," a recollection of Princess Czartoryska, an incident of the life of Joseph II at Berlin.

One day, at the end of dinner, she related that she had known Prince Kan-
nitz, who had a varied reputation, and incidentally one for impudence. Having the teeth, he attempted to them without the slightest regard for his guests. As soon as the table was cleared his valet
put a mirror, a basin and brushes before him, and then and there the prince began his morning toilet over again, just as if he were alone in his dressing room, while every one was waiting for him to finish to get up from the table.

"I could not suppress my astonishment," says Countess Potocka, "and asked the princess if she, too, had waited."
"Yes, alas," she replied, "I was so put out of countenance that I only recovered my senses at the foot of the stairs, but later on it was different. I complained of the heat and left the table at desert."

SLEEPING IN THE DARK

Pain Seems Easier to Bear When the Sufferer Has Light.

All who have suffered from toothache know to their sorrow that the pains increase as the night grows older. A toothache which during the day interfered but little with our enjoyment of life is likely
to develop during the hours of darkness
into a veritable terror, that makes us
curse the accident of our birth. It is the same with an earache, asthmatic troubles,
etc. Asthma is most likely to develop into a smothering nightmare between the hours of 10 p. m. and 6 a. m.

At the Vienna university Dr. Goldscheider has told the reason in a paper read before his class. He thinks the darkness prevailing in the average bedroom is at fault. Light, he says, gives a greater part in the pathology of aches than most people imagine. Those are, generally speaking, the healthiest members of the human family who live in sunlight, well aired rooms and who move about in the
sun as much as practicable.

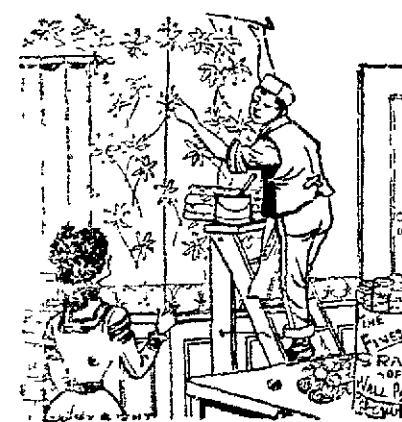

If in daytime we are stricken with pain, our sufferings are certainly less, relatively speaking, than they would be if the malady had seized us at night, for light
and sunshine soothe our feelings and do not allow us to abandon ourselves to the feeling

CITY BRIEFS

The annual kite flying season is on. The so-called equinoctial storm was of brief duration.

The storm accomplished wonders in the removal of ice and snow.

Local restaurants have commenced serving strawberry shortcake.

Pussy willows are out and the hand organ man will soon be around.

Flooders are now taking the hooks and are appearing in the market in goodly numbers.

Southern crows are arriving in full force. At times they come in droves so thick they actually darken the sky.

The nineteenth annual encampment of the New Hampshire division, Sons of Veterans, will be held in Concord, April 31 and 4th.

A wheelman's tool bag isn't complete without a bottle of Dr. Thomas's Electric Oil. Heals cuts, bruises, stings, sprains. Monarch over pain.

The docket for the April term of the supreme court, to open in Exeter April 3, contains 263 civil actions, 73 equity cases, 18 state actions and appeals and one case in sessions.

Every family should have its household medicine chest, and the first bottle in it should be Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, nature's remedy for coughs and colds.

Several theater parties are being formed in York to attend the production of When We Were Twenty-One at Music hall this (Saturday) evening. A late car will be run to York after the performance.

Itchiness of the skin, horrible plague. Most everybody afflicted in one way or another. Only one safe, never failing cure—Doan's Ointment. At any drug store, 50 cents.

There is considerable good natured rivalry between the Wattawamats and Dolapoons over their coming basket ball game at York next Monday evening, and the lovers of this sport are expecting a crack a jack game.

When We Were Twenty-One, with Mr. William Morris and a great cast, will, by request, play a return engagement at Music hall this evening. As presented a short time ago, it proved one of the best attractions of the season.

At an auction sale of antique treasure now going on in New York, four pieces are mentioned in The Tribune as worthy of special notice. Three of them are "a rare old Chippendale hall clock, with brass face, made by Timothy Chandler, of Concord, N. H.; an old china cabinet, with quaint diamond panes and fine inlaying, showing a rare specimen of Chippendale work, and a colonial mahogany sideboard from the old Ledd estate of Portsmouth, N. H."

There was no Saturday morning session of police court.

There have been a few clouds of dust raised by the wind today.

A quarterly session of the Rockingham district lodge, I. O. G. T., will be held at Hampton next Friday.

You should not feel tired all the time—healthy people don't—you won't if you take Hood's Sarsaparilla for a while.

The legislature of New Hampshire is not the only one to adjourn this week, as the general courts for Maine and New Jersey will do likewise.

Mr. George L. Parks, who has been restricted to his home for some time, is again able to be out, to the gratification of his many friends.

Mrs. A. J. Fogg of Boston is compiling a genealogy of Samuel Fogg, who came from England to Hampton soon after its settlement in 1638, and of his many descendants.

The approaching marriage of Mr. C. S. Husey of Portsmouth and Miss Orla B. Preble, formerly of York, is announced. Mr. Husey is a young man of excellent capabilities and is established in Portsmouth as an optician. He has built and furnished a beautiful home at Kittery Point, where they will reside.—Old York Transcript.

The compromise between the conflicting street railroad interests as to the right to build a road at Seabrook beach brings a very happy ending to the affair. It is evident that the roads will be built at once now, and that by this means a continuous shore line will be opened up from Salisbury to Hampton and Rye beaches, which is certain to become popular in the summer days.—Newburyport News.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Pearl street church will hold an Easter sale and entertainment at their vestry next Wednesday evening. Aprons and fancy articles will be for sale; also ice cream cake and confectionery. Arrangements are perfected for an excellent literary and musical entertainment, consisting of readings by two elocutionists, whistling solos, vocal and instrumental music, including piano, castanets and graphophone. Admission ten cents.

Mr. William Morris and an excellent cast in When We Were Twenty-One scored an enormous success when last seen in this city, and will play a return engagement at Music Hall this Saturday evening. The story of When We Were Twenty-One is ample. It tarps on the determination of a middle-aged bachelor to save the son of his dead friend from the folly of youth. He takes the boy's size on his own shoulders and the sacrifices which he makes result eventually in his own happiness. In all the action, realism is rampant, but there is always underlying it a pure sentiment, wholesome and true.

STRIKES A RICH FIND.

"I was troubled for several years with chronic indigestion and nervous debility," writes F. J. Green, of Lancaster, N. H. "No remedy helped me until I began using Electric Bitters, which did me more good than all the medicines I ever used. They have also kept my wife in excellent health for years. She says Electric Bitters are splendid for female troubles; that they are a grand tonic and invigorator for weak, run down women. No other medicine can take its place in our family." Try them! Only 50c. Satisfaction guaranteed by Globe Grocery Co.

Leaver camp, No. 2, and the E. Florence Barker tent, D. of V.
